

I have been blessed to work alongside Betsy on multiple collaborative projects in the last few years. These projects required public speaking presentations, something I didn't have much experience with beforehand. Before a presentation, my nerves would be a jumble and Betsy would speak with such grace, ease, and confidence - she knows how to capture and relate to an audience. Her wisdom radiates and her presentation quickly becomes a conversation with a group. Over the last three years, Betsy has taught me much more than just how to handle public speaking opportunities gracefully. She has helped me navigate challenges within my business and is someone I can always turn to for an honest opinion. Just being around Betsy is an inspiration - her work ethic, passion for helping others and faith are unparalleled.

Betsy built and maintained her own successful business and is one of the hardest workers I know, yet knows how to keep priorities straight. To build a business like hers takes expertise in every area - marketing, client relations, finance, execution, etc. If your business has problems needing solving, you need someone who is truthful, dedicated, and understands all sides of a successful business. You need someone with unmatched experience that will empower you and work through the tough issues. You need Betsy Richard.
